YOUR WANTS HERE---THEY COME BACK TO YOU IN DOLLARS

We love always to be in the midst of a blaze of glory.

We like to go into things with great celat and wind up in a grandstand finish. Resolutions of respect are always adopted unanimously.

The bride is always a beautiful young thing, with a host of friends, and the presents are always costly.

The groom is a rising young man, with a "bright itt ure ahead of him.

The colored always thanks the hotel-keeper for the resplendent layout he gives them at 34 per day.

The colored politician always rises to a "pint of order."

The private school teacher always gives each pupil a prize at the close of the session.

session.

Ladies always sit close together in the street cars, so the male passengers acceled not stand. They also thank the male passenger always when they arise to give up their sents—niff.

Ewery follow's sweetheart is the pret-sive up their scats—ail!

Every feilow's sweetheart is the pretties.
And so on, ad infin., ad lib, ecce quom bonum, all desperandum, e pluribus unum son six semper tyrannis.
Bo we again rise to romark, why should not we wind up in everything we undertake in a blaze of glory?
Why shouldn't we receive a beautiful bouquet each time we make a speech at a transparent with the semper semper with shouldn't we get the best seat at the theatre when we honor the gental managers with our presence?
Why shouldn't the best be placed before us when we enter the lunch room by the pretty girl with the frizzes?
For months and months we have been constant steendant upon the shows put forth by Charlle Rex, aided and abetted by Leo Wise and Jack Moroso.
And we must say that we have fully enjoyed what they have put before us. But we have had to stand up with the rabble, with our chin resting on the orchestra railing.
We have never kicked.
Now, however, at the close of the season, we feel that we are deserving something bester.
We want to pass out in a blaze of glory. We have to pay a fine for a tramp dog that has built his nest under our front stoop to announce our approach at the hour of midnight.
We also have other things to pay when we get the funds.
Therefore, we beg on our bended knee that something be done to give us a chance to close the season in a blaze of slory.

Somebody suggests that our friend at Somebody suggests that our friend at Somebody suggests that our friend at St. John's burying ground be clothed in colonial glad rags.

We think the suggestion was made by Dr. Jud. Cunningham.
But that is immaterial.
We also make the suggestion, so that when he gets into old Paddy Henry's pew to make that famous speech about "liberty and death." the whole thing may appear realistic.

pear realistic. People who occupy the center of the stage must have a good frame around Look to't, ye St. John's Committee.
